This training program offers fellows an opportunity to become comfortable and competent working in the interdisciplinary context of primary care, providing consultation to medical providers and providing psychology and behavioral health treatments with primary care patients. Our fellows function as members of a multidisciplinary healthcare team in a family medicine residency clinic. This training structure allows the fellow to grow his or her clinical skills with a highly varied population in integrated primary care.

FACULTY

ALLISON N. FARINA, MD

PSYCHOLOGY TRAINING
University of Missouri-Kansas City School of Medicine • Kansas City, MO

CLINICAL INTERESTS
Obstetrics, pediatrics and women’s health.

PERSONAL INTERESTS
Science, baking and decorating cakes

WHY SHE CHOSE FRANCISCAN HEALTH
She loves working with people who care about the office staff members and the patients. She’s thrilled to work in a place that pauses to pray twice a day.

CURRENT POST DOC FELLOW

NATHAN WALTERS, PSYD

PSYCHOLOGY TRAINING
Ball State University • Muncie, IN

TRAINING SPECIALTY
Counseling Psychology

CLINICAL INTERESTS
Men’s health, chronic illness, bariatrics and couples/marriage counseling

PERSONAL INTERESTS
Gardening, woodworking and reading

WHY HE CHOSE FRANCISCAN HEALTH
He appreciates that Franciscan has a long track record of going above and beyond to care for patients. This level of care makes for an ideal environment for engagement in truly integrated patient care.
PRE-DOCTORAL BEHAVIORAL HEALTH TRAINEES

KRIsten Cornish

Psychology Training
University of Indianapolis • Indianapolis, IN

Training Specialty
Child Concentration

Clinical Interests
Children/adolescents, families, trauma and assessment

Personal Interests
Baking, hiking, biking, swimming, knitting and reading

Why She Chose Franciscan Health
She is excited about the idea of working in an integrated health setting to help give patients the best care possible in all areas of life.

Alison Sander

Psychology Training
University of Indianapolis • Indianapolis, IN

Training Specialty
Clinical Psychology

Clinical Interests
Eating disorders, obesity, body image and body image dissatisfaction, depression, anxiety, trauma, borderline personality disorder, health psychology and diabetes care

Personal Interests
Cooking, reading science fiction novels and wine-tasting

Why She Chose Franciscan Health
She is interested in gaining a better understanding of integrated health care and the role psychology can play in behavioral medicine. In addition, she would like to help give patients the best care possible in all areas of life.